

ANCIENT LAW READING GROUP

A104 (Samuel Alexander Building)

7 October, Wednesday 5-6pm

Petitioning in Graeco-Roman Egypt
(Will Mundy)

18 November, Wednesday 5-6pm

Selling your children into slavery within the Roman Empire
(Ben Pliener)

2 December, Wednesday 5-6pm

From the Corpus Juris to Ottoman law
(Colin Imber)

The Autumn semester of the Ancient Law reading group will be dedicated to the interaction of Roman law with that of other cultures and societies. Topics will be drawn from the geographical, social and temporal fringes of the Roman empire. The topics promise a fertile ground for comparative discussions – people with a research interest in other ancient legal cultures are encouraged to join.

The sessions require no prior preparations from the participants.

The reading group is open to all.

For further information, please visit our blog or contact Marton Ribary and Sam Fernes:
marton.ribary@postgrad.manchester.ac.uk and samuel.fernes@manchester.ac.uk

Scribes of the aediles curules

<http://manchesterancientlaw.blogspot.co.uk/>